Kent is an international arbitration partner in Berwin Leighton Paisner's Singapore office.

Kent has a long track record of proven global expertise across a variety of contentious work and specialises in litigating and arbitrating complex cross border disputes. He joined BLP's Singapore office in 2011 after 14 years in London, where he was involved in the conduct of several high profile disputes, including Boris Berezovsky's US$6 billion claim against Roman Abramovich concerning Russian oil and aluminium assets and US$3 billion claims against the estate of a Georgian billionaire. His recent focus has been on work relating to India and Indonesia, often involving energy, resources and infrastructure.

From a Singapore base, Kent advises clients with interests in South East Asia and Greater China and further afield including India, who choose to arbitrate in Singapore and Hong Kong, or elsewhere in the region.

Kent is recognised in Chambers Asia Pacific 2014 as a leading individual for Dispute Resolution: Arbitration (Singapore). He is also recognised as a 'Local Disputes Star, Singapore' by Benchmark Litigation Asia 2013.
